#CSR - Going Compliant
An FMCG Mini Case Study

Supplier Relationship Management And The Drive For Sustainable Supply Chain - Both Priorities, Both Profoundly Connected

Historically speaking, our SRM efforts including innovation and sustainability management have lacked structure in both approach and tangibility, hindering improvement and limiting their potential for value.

Plus, wrapping conventional governance around our efforts to drive sustainable practice has lead to delay and unnecessary cost.

Suppeco's cloud-based platform offered us frictionless collaboration across our engagements. Monitoring supplier performance, ongoing CSR compliance and governance just became a lot easier.

Creating repeatable processes to measure and manage at the right level of detail - basically a single customer to multiple firms and stakeholders.

Suppeco allows us to engage in real-time with distributed teams and field agents across our operation. Providing a collaborative space for transparency on both data and actions.

Where all our service lines can be viewed, and where operational activity can be monitored against new legislation and assessed against compliance.

Disparate systems and in-house computing created comms-silos limiting the sharing of information and impeding progress on improvement initiatives.

Not now. Suppeco removed silos to improve performance by pushing the data directly to those who need it. No more barriers to entry and better participation through all levels of the operation.

Suppeco's accessible to everyone anywhere literally in seconds. Us of course, our suppliers, their teams known to the supply chain and our guest trace auditors.

Subject to controls of course designed to protect the flow of our sensitive data!

Confident. Assured.
Safeguarded.
